

Appendix

THE MAN WHO MISUNDERSTOOD

PROLOGUE

HE was lonely.

And SHE was beautiful.

One day SHE looked at HIM.

And SHE smiled.

PART ONE

HE said:
“I’ll give you my Heart.”

SHE heard:
“I’ll give you my Heart.”

SHE said:
“I want your Head first.”

HE heard:
“I want your head first.”

HE said:
“Okay. My head will be yours.”

SHE heard:
“Okay. My Head will be yours.”

And SHE smiled again.

PART TWO

HIS BEST FRIEND said:
“No.”

HE said:
“But I can’t do it by myself.”

HIS BEST FRIEND said:
“I don’t care. I won’t help you.”

HE said:
“But that’s what SHE wants.
And I want to do something for HER.”

HIS BEST FRIEND said:
“I won’t help you.”

HE said:
“Please. You’re my best friend.”

HIS BEST FRIEND said: "No."

PART THREE

HE said:

“Remember when I got busted? They were beating me all night.
They broke my arm. But I didn’t say your name.”

HIS BEST FRIEND looked at HIM.

HIS BEST FRIEND said:
“Okay. I’ll help you.”

And HE smiled.

And HIS BEST FRIEND didn't smile.

PART FOUR

So HIS BEST FRIEND did what HE wanted.

He cut off HIS head and brought it to HER door.

When SHE saw the present HER face turned white.

Then it turned gray.

And SHE dropped dead.

EPILOGUE

Half an hour later HIS BEST FRIEND put a bullet through his heart.

DICTIONARY

heart

pump-like animal organ

Heart

love, courage, devotion, passion

head

ball-like part of the animal body

Head

mind, thoughts, memories

I want your Head first.

I like you, but I don't know you.

We have to talk before we kiss.